STRANGE BERLIN STORY OF PLANE VISITORS

"Unidentified Foreign Machines Drop Anti-Nazi Pamphlets"

NEVER SEEN BY PUBLIC

NEWSPAPERS SUPPLIED WITH STORY

OFFICIAL LYNX-EYE?

Berlin, June 24.
The Berlin public is exceedingly puzzled by the appearance of an official story, alleging the mysterious visitation of a number of foreign aeroplanes, which arrived over Berlin, according to the tale, and flew over the Wilhelmstrasse.

Details of this astonishing story are provided both by the police and the Air Ministry.

The official reports state that the planes were foreign machines, but that it was impossible to identify their country of origin.

It is alleged that they dropped pamphlets containing insulting remarks about the Government.

NO CONFIRMATION

Nevertheless, enquiries at the Tempelhof Aerodrome have elicited the fact that the officials and ground-staff there have no knowledge whatsoever of foreign machines having appeared anywhere near Berlin.

Berlin's newspapers, although they have been unable to confirm the official report from any other source, have been ordered to publish a front page statement about aeroplanes which nobody has apparently seen and about pamphlets which nobody has apparently picked up.—Reuter.

AMBITIOUS FLIGHT

AUSTRALIA-ENGLAND IN FIVE DAYS

TO SINGAPORE NONSTOP

Sydney, June 23.

The well-known Australian aviator, Mr. C. T. M. Ulm took off from Derby, Western Australia, at 11.55 p.m. to-night in an attempt to fly to England in from five to six days.

Ulm's flight is one of the most ambitious ever attempted on the Australia-England route. He intends, if it is at all possible, to avoid landing in the Dutch East Indies at any point, his intention being when he set out last night to make Singapore his first stopping-place.

The capabilities of his machine may be illustrated by the fact that prior to taking off for Singapore, he flew nonstop from Sydney to Derby in 21 hours, setting an Australian record.

The plane is carrying a crew of three and has a range of over three thousand miles.

SOUTHERN CROSS FLIER.

Mr. Ulm, the chief pilot of the flight, will be best remembered as one of the companions of Air-Commodore Kingsford-Smith in 1928 when they carried out their historic trans-Pacific flight from the United States to Australia in the first Southern Cross.—Reuter.

BANKRUPT DISCHARGED

At the Bankruptcy Court this morning the Chief Justice Mr. J. R. Wood granted the discharge of Henry Arfas, junior partner in the firm of Messrs. Steger and Co., of 2, Connaught Road. The discharge was made with a three months' suspension order.

CHINESE LABOUR REGULATIONS

RESOLUTION FAILS AT I.L.C.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1921. Received June 23, 9.50 a.m.)

Geneva, June 23.

The resolution submitted by the Chinese delegation to the International Labour Conference, requesting the governing body to approach governments concerned and to take steps to ensure that industrial and commercial undertakings by foreign or Chinese firms in foreign concessions and leased territories in China should conform to Chinese Labour Regulations, was lost, lacking a quorum.

Mr. Hsiao Chi-yung, the Chinese Government delegate, declared that China was to-day the victim of a terrible war with invasion from abroad, meaning ruin for millions, while the rest of the world population of more than four hundred millions had lost a large fraction of their purchasing power as a direct result of this invasion.—Reuter.

EX-REICH PRESIDENT ARRESTED

Paul Loebe, Socialist Leader

Berlin, June 24.

The former President of the Reich, the Socialist leader, Herr Paul Loebe, was arrested this afternoon.

A number of Social Democrats were also placed under arrest.

The action has been taken in connexion with the proscription of the Socialist Party.—Reuter.

Vienna, June 23.

COMMUNISTS ON WARPATH

ALL FOREIGNERS WITHDRAW

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1921. Received June 23, 10.10 a.m.)

Shanghai, June 24.

Taking advantage of the recurrence of quarrelling between the warlords of Szechuan, Communists have launched a big drive towards the centre of the province.

All foreign missionaries have been compelled to withdraw from their stations in the north-eastern area of the Province according to foreign telegrams reaching Shanghai.

The Communists returned after a defeat which sent them back to the border of Shansi and have now recaptured Pachow and Kuang-yuan.

The missionaries in those cities, forewarned, got away just in time to avoid capture, but as a precautionary measure, all foreigners have also been withdrawn from Paoning, Futsunyl, Lambu and Sintienzen.

Recent reports from Chinese sources portray the utter misery in North-East Szechuan owing to banditry and oppression by soldiers, whose generals are indifferent to Nanking's orders for the cessation of civil war.—Reuter.

FORD SHOWS HUGE ASSETS

BUT DECREASE ON LAST YEAR

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1921. Received June 21, 10.15 a.m.)

Boston, June 23.

The cash assets of the Ford Motor Company for 1932 amounted to $3,903,650,000 compared with $3,724,483,000 for last year, according to a statement filed with the Massachusetts Commission of Taxation.

The Profit and Loss Account showed a surplus of $3,580,440,000 as compared with $3,585,302,000 last year, and the capital stock is estimated to be $17,264,000.—Reuter.

Roosevelt Scotches A Rumour

NOT MAKING CRUISER DASH TO LONDON

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1921. Received June 21, 1.30 a.m.)

New York, June 23.

The report that President Roosevelt is contemplating a dramatic dash across the Atlantic to attend the World Economic Conference, aboard the new cruiser, Indianapolis, has been growing more persistent in the last few days.

The story has, in fact, grown almost into a general belief.

President Roosevelt, however, to-day issued a denial through his secretary, who issued a statement at Portland, Maine, to-day.

President Roosevelt is at present still aboard his yacht, the Amber Jack, off Chebeague Island, and according to his secretary's statement, he has no plans and no intention of visiting London.

U. S. ATTITUDE.

Despite the reports from London indicating that the failure of the United States to subscribe to a policy for the temporary stabilisation of currencies is having an adverse effect upon the World Economic Conference, there is little likelihood of President Roosevelt going across to "rescue it."

NO CHECK ON PRICES.

It is emphasised in official quarters, moreover, that nothing will be done at the present time to check the rise of American prices, which according to the Federal Board, have risen sixty per cent. between February and the end of May for six basic commodities.

This very appreciable rise is to be compared with a depreciation of fifteen per cent. in the dollar.

Half the rise in commodity prices is ascribed to the increase in world prices and the other half to the depreciation of the dollar and to domestic influences.—Reuter.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, as President of the League of Nations Monetary and Economic Conference, declared in an address to the press this afternoon, that he was meeting the third week of the conference with a very buoyant and hopeful heart.

He was not discouraged by the United States' attitude towards the proposals for the temporary stabilisation of currencies which he described as a little setback, adding that he never felt there was very much in it.

American conditions were, for the moment, very difficult in relation to the monetary situation.—Reuter.

UNANIMITY NOT ESSENTIAL

LIBERAL VIEW OF CONFERENCE

London, June 23.

Sir Herbert Samuel, the Liberal leader, speaking at Manchester this afternoon, referring to the progress at the World Conference said that with this conference, unlike the Disarmament Conference, unanimity was not essential though it was desirable, and if a group of countries agreed to lower the obstacles to their mutual trade that would be an important step in advance.—British Wireless.

COMPSTON IN FORM

BEATS SARAZEN BY 5 AND 4

FIRST OF SERIES

London, June 23.

Something of a fillip to English golf was given to-day, when Archie Compston, the former British Ryder Cup player beat Gene Sarazen, holder of British open title and an American representative in the forthcoming Ryder Cup match, by 5 and 4 over 36 holes.

The match, played at Exeter, was the first of a series of five challenge matches between the two famous players.

Its feature was a splendid recovery on the part of Compston, who turned two down and then took complete command of the situation.

He knocked off his deficit and won further five holes in the course of the next fourteen.

Sarazen went round the first eighteen holes in 68 and Compston was three strokes worse.—Reuter.

NEW COMMANDER IN R.A.

LT. COL. CARRINGTON-SYKES

Lieut. Col. M. Carrington-Sykes, M.C., late of Portland, recently arrived in the Colony aboard the S.S. Hector to take command of the 8th Heavy Battery, R.A.

Lieut. Col. Carrington-Sykes was born in May 1886, and received his first commission in July 1904 when he became a 2nd Lieut. in the Artillery. In the same month, three years later, he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant and in 1914 was made a captain. He was acting major from September, 1916 until November 1918 and was raised to the rank of major in 1918.

He saw service in France from 1915 to 1918 and was wounded. He was awarded the 1914-15 Star, the British War Medal, the Victory Medal and the Military Cross.

PEACE WITH RUSSIA?

LITVINOFF TO VISIT SIR JOHN SIMON

MOSCOW TRIAL RESULTS

London, June 23.

Hopes are rising that an end may shortly be brought to the economic war now proceeding between Britain and Soviet Russia.

M. Litvinoff, the Russian Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, has agreed to meet Sir John Simon at the Foreign office on Monday.

There is little doubt that the purpose of the meeting is to explore the trade consequences arising from the imprisonment of Messrs. MacDonald and Thornton, the two British engineers guillotined after the Moscow Trial.

M. Litvinoff, accompanied by his wife was among the guests to-day at one of a series of small luncheon parties which the Prime Minister and Miss MacDonald are giving for the delegates to the World Conference.—Reuter.

RESTAURANT FAILS

RECEIVING ORDER MADE

A receiving order was made against Puran Chand, who carried on business as the "Excelsior" Restaurant, in Des Voeux Central, at the Bankruptcy Court this morning by the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood. Applicant was represented by Mr. H. J. Armstrong, of Messrs. Deacons, who stated that the sole assets consisted of furniture and effects. The Official Receiver, Mr. E. L. Agius, said there was sufficient assets to justify the order being made.

TREASURY BILLS TENDERS

ALLOCATION MADE OF $45,000,000

London, June 23.

A total of $22,660,000 was applied for in tenders for $50,000,000 Treasury bills to-day. The amount allotted in bills at three months was $45,000,000. The average rate per cent was 7/10.34 compared with 7/10.194, a week ago.—British Wireless.

STOP PRESS

Shanghai, June 21.

It is uncertain whether the Messageries Maritimes motorship ARAMIS is actually off the rocks when she struck two nights ago when 210 miles from Shanghai.

The Shanghai tug Sampson yesterday supplied the disabled liner with two pumps, while the tender ALEXANDRA left at eight o'clock this morning with about a hundred passengers for Shanghai.

The French cruiser PRIMAQUET and the sloop ALGOL left Shanghai yesterday to assist the ARAMIS.—Reuter.

AN ALL-BRITISH FINAL

AMATEUR GOLF TITLE

SCOTT'S GREAT VICTORY

London, June 23.

The final of the British Open Golf Championship to be played at Hoylake to-morrow (Saturday) will be all-British.

The quarter-finals and semi-finals were played to-day and as a result the foreign challenge was successfully resisted.

The last foreign survivor, the American Walker Cup player, Dunlap, conqueror of Ross Somerville, reached the semi-final, but failed to check the progress of the Hon. Michael Scott, who has been playing superlative golf this week and is now a strong favourite for the title.

TOLLEY'S BID.

The other semi-finalists were Cyril Tolley and W. Bourn. Tolley showed something of his old form in the quarter-final and won comfortably. In the semi-final against Bourn, a grim tussle resulted in Tolley's defeat though two extra holes were required before Bourn claimed the right of entry into the final.

The Hon. Michael Scott's victory over Dunlap was the result of one of the most thrilling games of the tournament. Neither player obtained an advantage over the first nine holes, turning all square.

HOMEWARD SPURT.

Scott played perfect golf on the homeward half putting on a spurt which gave him victory on the fifteenth green.

The results of the semi-finals were:

Hon. Michael Scott defeated Dunlap (U.S.A.) by four up and three to play.

W. Bourn defeated Cyril Tolley at the twentieth hole.—Reuter.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Pointers for Summer Foot Comfort.

By Alicia Hart

Feet usually tell us when summer is really here, even before the balmy weather does.

There are some precautions you can take to encourage summer foot comfort.

First, get your summer shoes a half size or a whole size longer, if you have the least suggestion of discomfort. For some unknown reason, women's feet seem to grow even when they are in the thirties or forties. Many women wear too-short shoes without knowing it. Length makes much more difference than width and this bit of extra length will spell ease and satisfaction.

Second, change your shoes the minute you get home. Whether you are going out or staying home, slip into a comfortable pair of low-heeled ties.

Third, if you have arch trouble,
try either some arch supporters inserted in your shoes, or wear some of those elastic foot bands that slip around your arch, under your stockings. They do show some, under your stockings, but wear them when you aren't going out and those hours of comfort will help you all the time.

Last, foot exercises, those that open up the unused muscles of the foot, are well worth learning.
Wriggle your toes and move your feet over to where they rest on their outsoles when you sit still reading. These are excellent exercises.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF.

By Alicia Hart

Summer hands need plenty of oiling.

If you are given to gardening,
then your hands get dried out with much washing. If you are housekeeping, then the dust and dirt plays havoc on them unless you are careful. If you are just sun-baking a good time, the hot sun takes its toll.

Finger nails grow brittle, too.
So see to it that you use some cuticle salve or just rub vaseline into your nails each night, all around them, pushing back the cuticle as you do so.

With the very summery dresses, brilliant nails appear on every hand. You can have them green, blue, black or brown, though goodness knows they look decadent any way but delicately tinted pink to many folks.

Don't let your hands get brown faster than the rest of you. There are oils that prevent over-burning with sun and they make the skin softer, too. If you have to resort to bleaches, then use hand lotions and hand creams afterwards, because they are so drying.

With the fancy gloves that summer brings in, you need pretty hands or they look incongruous.
Have you ever tried some of the new hand creams? Most women who care how they look to-day buy face creams of all kinds. Few even realize that there are creams compounded just for the good of hands. It is worth while to investigate.

SMART TOUCHES FOR SPRING CHIC

A Few Facts about

KLIM

*1 CONVENIENCE. Klim is pure, rich cow's milk in powdered form. It needs no ice to keep it in summer, and it will not freeze in winter. For cooking it may be used dry in the same manner as sugar, salt or flour.

*2 ECONOMY. Klim is economical because there is no spoilage, it does not sour, you use only what you need when you need it.

*3 FLAVOUR. The rich, natural milk flavour of Klim is enjoyed by everyone and, used in cooking, makes foods taste better.

*4 HEALTHFULNESS. Klim has all the well-known health elements of milk with the added benefit of easier digestibility.

*5 UNIFORMITY. Klim is standardized for quality and purity, and you can always be certain of the same percentage of butterfat every day.

*6 VITAMINS. Highest technical authorities show that the Klim process does not destroy the vitamins which are so valuable in milk.

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

MONNIE O'DARE who loves DAN CARDIGAN, rich and handsome, discovers her friend, SANDRA LAWRENCE, is trying to win him from her, CHARLES EUSTACE, a new-comer in town, pays a good deal of attention to Monnie, and helps her when her brother, a married ANGIE GILLEN, who works in a candy shop, as soon as she tells her divorce.

ITTY, housemaid at the Lawrence home, dislikes her mistress, suspecting her of "sneaking" the handsome chauffeur, JAMES, Monnie starts out with Charles to find KAY, her younger sister, who has gone away with CHESTER BIGELOW, travelling salesman. Kay, frightened, wants to turn back from the adventure before it is too late. Monnie and Charles find Kay and bring her home again.

CHAPTER XV

Sandra Lawrence was giving a party. Not the ordinary sort of Belvedere party but a very special one, with caterers from the city, flowers from the same place and an orchestra reputed to have come all the way from Chicago! Mrs. Peterman, grumbling below-stairs about the "goings-on," was nevertheless enjoying herself hugely, bumping into the caterer's men with their trestle tables and their whistles, bullying Hetty.

"Why'n't she have her parties at the club? That's what I want to know!" Hetty complained, polishing silver. "Forty people to supper—it's fierce, that's what it is."

The cook immediately took up the cudgels for her employer.

"Hain't the young lady a right to do as she pleases in her own house? What's it to you, anyway? You'll have your afternoon off, same as always. You've got no kick coming."

"Me answering the bell in that gray outfit and tending to the ladies' things," whined Hetty, "When I oughta be off having a good time for myself. She's just a pain—that's what she is, giving herself airs like nobody in town."

"You get along upstairs in plenty of time to make yourself neat, miss," warned Mrs. Peterman, influenced by the reference to the new uniform of taffeta with a musical comedy apron and frilled cap.

"Who's all coming?" Hetty wanted to know, interrupting.

"The cream of the place," said the older woman with relish. "Judge Martindale's two, and the Blairs, the Simmonses and Watermans and Olivers—and the Cardigans, of course. And 10 young folks from the city, coming by the 6 o'clock. James'd better not forget to meet them."

"Mister Cardigan, I'll bet, is invited," Hetty opined, giving a vicious rub to a fruit bowl encrusted with ornamentation.

"Of course. And his sister, Miss Geraldine. That new Mr. Eustace—"

"You saw the list," Hetty broke in, eyes glittering with a true gossip's relish. "How about that pretty O'Dare girl?"

Mrs. Peterman shook her head. "Not her. This is for real swells, didn't I tell you? The O'Dares are nice enough, but poor as church mice."

"Her ladyship had her 'round the house plenty all last winter," Hetty said coldly. "If you ask me, she's better than the lot of them. She knows a person when you meet her on the street. She ain't afraid to say 'good morning' like a Christian when you see her."

Mrs. Peterman's manner became slightly unctuous. On all matters of social precedence in Belvedere she, having been general of the Lawrence household affairs for many years, felt herself eminently qualified to speak.

"Nice enough, as I said, but her station in life is quite different from the rest of these people. My mother always said to me, 'Nannie,' she said, 'always keep to your own station in life. And I did. It's better so.'"

Hetty sniffed. "This is a free country," she contributed negligently. Then she wheeled, flushing deeply, as a masculine voice called her name.

"Jimmy. I didn't expect you back so soon!"

The big, grinning young man in chauffeur's uniform lounged in the doorway.

"Thought I'd keep my eye on you girls, so you wouldn't get into mischief. How's things going?"

Hetty said virtuously. "We've been working like slaves all day. Be glad when this is over."

"Gonna be swell music," the young chauffeur said, jerking his head in the direction of the sun porch, whither the grand piano had already been conveyed. This room, too, was banked with all manner of flowering trees, roses, and the like. The drawing-room and the library beyond had been cleared for action. Rugs had been rolled up, highly polished floors pushed back. In the dining room which had an oval glassed-in breakfast room beyond, the caterer's men were madly busy. A hum of activity, tangible as the whir of bees, pervaded everything.

Sandra Lawrence, fresh and trim in white linen riding things, now came briskly down the stairs, surveying the scene.

"Everything's going well," she said, with a nod to her retinue. "James, you'll bring those people up from the 6 o'clock. Then, Mrs. Peterman, they'll change—the rooms look very nice—and we go on to the club for dinner. We'll be back by 9:30. I don't expect anyone until 10, really, for the dancing, but it's just as well to be safe. I've borrowed Mr. Eustace's man, Kong, to do the cocktails. Show him where everything is. He'll be here before 7—"

And she was gone, leaving behind her a faint, delicate scent. Everything Sandra did was well done. She was cool, competent, correct. At 22, she had the poise of a matron twice her age. She loved this sort of thing—the whir and scurry of a big party. It was the very breath of life to her. Ever since her return from Europe the last time, she had complained bitterly to her father of the dullness—in fact the lack of social life—in Belvedere. Now, in mid-July, she prepared to bring a little gaiety to the somnolent town. She would give "a smart" party, the sort of affair a Gotham debutante might give at the Ritz. Everything would be perfect—cold food, drinks, things in aspic, music—everything!

As she went out the side door into the terraced and landscaped garden with the special pool her father had been gaoled into having built for her the year before, her eye took in the scene approvingly. Sandberg, the grizzled handyman, was at work on the flagged paths, trimming away the ragged grass. The roses were in full burst. There was a misty blue background of delphinium. It might, Sandra reflected, be a true English garden, with at least 10 generations of culture behind it.

At the stables she found James, who had slipped around the back way as she went out the front. He was running a cloth lightly over the hood, adding unnecessary polish to the already glistening chromium goddess who sprang, in full flight, from the nose of the engine.

She gave him a dazzling smile. "Thanks—James. You're sure I've plenty of gas? I've got to get back in good order this afternoon."

"Yes, ma'am, Miss Sandra. It's O. K."

She did wish American servants were more formal. Perhaps she could teach James, sometime, not to say "O. K." But he was a stunning-looking boy, no doubt about that. A dash of the Gary Cooper flavour about him. His uniform fitted him perfectly.

She slid into the driver's seat, slapping her pockets, boy fashion. Sandra was an unconscious actress. When she wore riding clothes she adopted a gaily masculine air. James sprang to attention.

"Match, miss?"

"Yes, thanks very much." She flipped a cigarette from her pigskin case and stuck it into a corner of her mouth. The young man came close, holding the flame for her, cupping it with infinite care with one brown hand. Sandra felt his nearness—a little tingle went down her spine. She inhaled deeply. This wouldn't do. She would have to show James his place. Just because they'd picked together, quite informally, on Summit Hill, that day the distributor acted up, just because she'd been—well, friendly and democratic to the boy—he needn't misunderstand. That was the trouble with servants in this country. Give them an inch and they'd take a yard.

As the engine roared, leaping to be off, she gave the chauffeur a grateful glance.

"Don't forget the 6 o'clock," she sang, making a turn.

Yes, he must be reminded that he was, after all, only her servant. She was the great lady. Why had she been so foolish, that day on Summit Hill? It had been spring—he had reminded her, in his bluntness and leanness, of Dan Cardigan. Was that it? Anyhow, for the fraction of an instant she had let him hold her in his arms. It had been the vilest accident. She had tripped, stumbling over a tree stump. He had caught her. She had lain there for an instant longer than necessary. Oh, she had been mad, mad! That was all—but it had been encouragement enough.

The man in olive green stared after her curiously as the dust hid the car from view.

"She's a cool one and that's the truth," he muttered to himself.

A girl in maid's uniform, watching from the pantry window, caught her lip within her teeth.

"If she don't leave him alone," she threatened to no one at all. "I'll—!" She did not finish her menacing sentence.

HOW TO TAKE
'ASPRO'FOR COLDS AND INFLUENZA

'ASPRO' the most universally used medicine in the British Empire is the quick safe and effective means of combating influenza. Take 2 'Aspro' Tablets immediately Flu symptoms appear, and two Tablets every three hours afterwards until the Flu has disappeared. A hot whisky or Lemon Drink to be taken with the last dose before going to bed. It is advisable when taking 'Aspro' for influenza and Colds to keep the body warmly clad in order to prevent chill. These instructions have been scientifically formulated as a result of careful chemical research investigations and quick relief is obtained because after ingestion in the system 'Aspro' is a Solvent of Uric Acid—a powerful germicide—an antiseptic—is anti-pyretic—anti-periodic and anti-fermentative. 'Aspro' does not harm the heart. Always keep it in the home ready for emergency.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC
IN HONG KONG

Current Newspaper reports inform us of a serious influenza outbreak among the troops at Shamshui. Flu sometimes spreads rapidly and precautions for prevention are essential. 'Aspro' the all British Medicine tablet stops flu at inception.

The reason why 'ASPRO' has such a wonderful power to banish flu, is because, after ingestion in the system, it is both a Germicide and an Anti-Pyretic. The value of its Germicidal qualities is apparent, whilst its Anti-Pyretic qualities reduce feverish conditions. 'ASPRO' also soothes away the aches and pains attendant upon flu, by the same means that it banishes headaches—toothache—sciatica and neuralgia attacks and all painful conditions. Numerous complaints attended by pains and feverish conditions quickly yield to 'ASPRO'. Being a solvent of Uric Acid 'ASPRO' (after ingestion in the system) has a most powerful influence over rheumatism and painful rheumatic attacks. Anyone can take 'ASPRO', anywhere, at any time. It benefits everyone in the home from child to parent. 'ASPRO' harms neither the heart nor the stomach. It does not even form a habit or affect the digestion. That's why 'ASPRO' is the safest, quickest acting, most efficient medicine serving and helping humanity to-day.

HOW TO GIVE

'ASPRO' to CHILDREN

Two simple methods of giving 'ASPRO' to the children are: (a) with a little milk or (b) break the tablet up and administer in a teaspoonful of jam. The dosage is: Children 3 to 6 years, ½ tablet; 6 to 14 years, 1 tablet; 14 to 18 years, 1½ tablets. 'ASPRO', like any other medicine should not be given to babies under 3 years of age without medical advice.

'ASPRO' IS PACKED
IN 3 SIZES

'Aspro' for Hong Kong is packed in three sizes under our exclusive hygienic sanitape system whereby each tablet is hermetically sealed in a separate airtight package to stop contact with atmospheric conditions and prevent hydrolysis. Aspro thus reaches you in its perfect original condition of purity—and it does not harm the heart. Five tablets 20 cents. Ten tablets 40 cents. 27 tablets $1.00.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY.

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 3,310,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports: After an erratic and dull day the market advanced during the last hour of the session erasing losses of the previous sessions due to bullish wheat news of sensational crop damage reports from Canada and also strong cash wheat premiums in the Southwest causing shorts in agricultural stocks to rush to cover. Bonnet's denial that Franco is planning to abandon the gold standard also helped to stimulate the market. Observers believe that yesterday's decline and to-day's irregularity are due partly to professional traders testing the market. Cable received from Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, New York:—

"Strength in wheat and the United States' determination to defer money stabilization brought on a stock market rally which should continue subject to technical reactions. Wheat was lower early in the day but on reports of little rain in the spring wheat belt rallied to new highs for the year. The wheat market is bullish on sensational news of small crops, dry weather, cash tightening and premiums advancing.

Increasing favorable reports on the curtailment plan becoming a cotton market factor heretofore are ignored or seriously doubted and largely responsible for to-day's strength despite realizing.

INFLUENZA PREVALENT IN HONGKONG

REPORTS to hand indicate that the present wave of Influenza is still hanging about. An attack means "laying up" in bed—unemployment—and much inconvenience. The quickest way to beat the 'Flu is to use 'ASPRO'. 'ASPRO' will stop Colds and 'Flu at inception. Immediately the first symptoms appear take 2 'ASPRO' Tablets and 2 tablets every three hours afterwards until symptoms disappear, a hot lemon drink to be taken immediately after the last dose before going to bed. It is advisable when taking 'ASPRO' for Influenza and Colds to keep the body warmly clad in order to prevent chill. 'ASPRO' won't fail you! It is sure, safe and certain. A child can take it safely. It does not harm the heart or injure the stomach and gives quick results because, after ingestion in the system, it is a solvent of uric acid, a powerful germicide and is anti-periodic, anti-pyretic and anti-fermentative.

'ASPRO'

Does Not Harm the Heart

'ASPRO' makes positive, definite and clear claims that it will relieve an Influenza or Cold attack in one night and it proves it. You can prevent 'Flu' by taking 2 'ASPRO' Tablets at the first sign of a Cold and 2 tablets every three hours afterwards until the symptoms disappear; a hot lemon drink to be taken with the last dose before going to bed. It is advisable when taking 'ASPRO' for Influenza and Colds to keep the body warmly clad in order to prevent chill. The value of 'ASPRO' for Influenza was proved in Australia when the Pneumonic Influenza Plague ravaged the country, and the Federal Parliament proclaimed 'ASPRO' a Necessary Commodity in the public interest.

'ASPRO' BRINGS SWEET SLEEP TO THE SLEEPLESS

There are many thousands of people who now have sweet peaceful sleep, who hitherto hardly knew the meaning of a period of restfulness. 'ASPRO' has brought about the transformation by its sweet soothing influence on the nerves, and breaking up of local feverish conditions. Two tablets before retiring is the usual dose.

MUSSELS TO TAKE A CURE

FROM SICK BED TO HYDRO

Municipal "hydros" for mussels, complete with sea-water baths and cold showers, are to be erected round the coasts of England in an attempt to restore the mussel-fishing industry to prosperity.

Not only will the mussels, after being caught, be allowed two days to disport in their sedate fashion in the fine porcelain-faced swimming baths offered them by the local council, their health will be safeguarded by precautions as fastidious as those protecting humans who "take the waters."

All their bathing water will be "sterile," although it is pumped from the sea; their showers will be administered at an exhilarating pressure from hose-pipes, and on warm days cooling douches will be given whenever the mussels are beginning to feel a "touch of sun" between dips.

This is the remarkable solution found by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, after fifteen years of research, for bringing back into use the condemned and closed mussel-beds of Britain and restoring a living to hundreds of workless mussel-fishermen.

It has been developed with such success by the Convey Shell-Fish Research Station that the tiny industry at Convey has benefited by £50,000 in ten years, without raising prices to the consumer or costing the Government anything to run the "hydro," which is self-supporting.

ALL IN TWO DAYS.

Now Morecambe, with one of the largest mussel industries in the country, Lytham, near Blackpool, and Boston, another great source of English mussels, are in various stages of planning and installing "Mussel Cleansing Tanks," and other councils are certain to follow.

The method evolved at Convey is brilliantly simple. The baths of sterile sea-water and the cold showers are so arranged as to enable the mussel to clean himself from all infectious bacteria and other pollutants attendant on the defilement of sea-water in recent years. Then, after two days, he is sent alive, happy, and medically certified, to the great mussel-eating areas of England.

It is believed that once these guaranteed mussels are available in quantity, the old vogue of the mussel in all ranks of society will return, bringing greater prosperity than ever before to the "doomed" shell-fish industry and hope to more than three-quarters of the mussel-fishing areas themselves, which have already been closed owing to pollution.

SCIENTIST WITH TREACLE POT

STILLING VIBRATION IN BIRKBECK COLLEGE

DR. NETTLETON'S RESEARCHES

A college "ghost," London's traffic vibration; the bells of St. Sepulchre, Holborn; and midnight visits from suspicious police constables—these are some of the difficulties which have been successfully overcome by Dr. H. R. Nettleton, of Birkbeck College, London, in a recent determination of one of the fundamental units of electricity.

Dr. Nettleton described to a representative of the Press the extraordinary precautions which must be taken in carrying out delicate research work in the college's building off Chancery-lane.

In search of quiet Dr. Nettleton has worked through 250 nights in his laboratory. Between midnight and six in the morning he finds that there is no traffic vibration; but something which he and his assistants call the college ghost occasionally makes dull, heavy noises and—which is strange for a ghost—shakes the building.

There have, so they say, "even been voices heard on the landing outside, but when the door has been opened there has been no one visible."

POLICE SUSPICIOUS.

His other night trouble has been the anxiety of policemen on seeing a light in the small hours. On one occasion a cordon was put round the building before it was discovered that it was "only a scientist at work."

But Dr. Nettleton's favourite time for working is on Sunday, between the morning and evening services at St. Sepulchre's Church. Although the church is more than a quarter of a mile distant, the pealing of its bells is sufficient to set his recording spot of light dancing, and sometimes it has been known to move six inches.

Most of these troubles, he explained, he has overcome by suspending the whole of his apparatus from the ceiling. Even then it would swing if he had not discovered that by letting a pointer at the bottom of the apparatus float in viscous treacle or lubricating oil he could stop the random movement.

Yet he has never been discouraged. His work has been re-

COLLEGE SEQUEL TO A QUESTIONNAIRE

Sir John Bradford's Explanation

The issue of the questionnaire, from the address of the University of London (which was summarised in the Telegraph last week, has been followed by a disclaimer and explanation by Sir John Rosa Bradford (Chairman of the College Committee) and Mr. Allen Mawer, the Provost.

They point out that they first heard of the issue of the questionnaire, which was signed by two members of the College staff, through the Press and from letters received from private persons, and said:

"Objection has been taken, and rightly taken, to some of the questions, seeing that they ask the persons addressed to give their views on some matters of grave moral questions on matters of this kind."

The letter continues:

"We desire, on behalf of University College, to say that the questionnaire was issued entirely without the consent or the cognisance of the College, or even of the Department from which it appeared to emanate, and to say at the same time how much we regret that any members of the staff should, in the pursuit of a purely private research, thus have used the name of the College."

While no defence is made of the document, it is explained, "in fairness to its authors," that equal emphasis was laid on the questions asked in relation to "such topics as new education, rationalism, non-smoking, penal reform, Free Trade, and the League of Nations," and that questions "upon certain topics to which exception has rightly been taken were clearly only incidental to the inquiry, and did not constitute its main purpose."

The questionnaire, it is added, was not addressed to students of the College.

ceived with approval by the Physical Society, and his hope is that one day the college's dream of a new building on the Bloomsbury University site will be realised. Then he will have a modern, vibrationless laboratory in which to work.

FARMERS HIT BY LOW PRICES

LAND MORTGAGES TOO ONEROUS

SHORT TERM CREDITS

Now that the Minister of Agriculture has, on behalf of the British Government, publicly stated that it is their intention to revive this important industry in the interests of the whole country, the question of financing farmers to take advantage of such marketing schemes as may be put into operation becomes of vital importance.

It is, of course, unfortunate that the townsmen has but little idea of the terrible financial condition of agriculture, nor yet does he appreciate the special difficulties of financing the production of farm produce.

Whereas a factory can be closed down on any given date and reopened as soon as fresh oil has been put into the bearings, the closing down of a farm will take a year and it may take several years to reopen and get it into productive capacity again.

Hardly anything on a farm can be sold with less than one year's preparation, nor can it be sold before it is ready for the market, and then by reason of its perishability it has to be disposed of almost immediately.

FALL IN PRICES.

What has hit the agricultural industry more than anything else is the long continued fall in the price of commodities since 1925. The long-term debts and obligations then incurred have become an impossible burden on the producer.

Mortgages on land bought at inflated prices, by reason of the Corn Production Act, even though the interest and sinking fund have been fixed at 5½ per cent., are proving far too onerous.

Whatever be the rights and wrongs of Tithe, which was stabilised in 1925, it takes, to-day, double the produce to satisfy £100 of tithe or charges.

The want of capital was recognised by the Government in 1928 when the Agricultural Credit Act was passed. The long-term loans granted by the Agricultural Mortgage Corporation set up under this Act were of very considerable help at the time, but the failure of Part 2 of this Act, enabling short-term loans to be granted, is well known. To-day, the farmer has no means of obtaining short-term credit at reasonable rates.

Unfortunately, since 1928 a still further fall in commodity prices has taken place, ending with a veritable landslide this last eighteen months. It may be that it would have been far kinder for banks and mortgagees to have foreclosed then, thus leaving the farmer with the remnants of capital rather than inflicting further losses and debts upon him. But what would have happened to the men on the farms and tradesmen in the country towns?

The financial position is extremely serious, and it behoves the Government to make further provision not only to make the producer pay in the future, which all hope is being done, but to relieve the industry of some part of its debt in the past.

TOWNSMAN'S ADVANTAGE.

For eight or nine years the townsmen has been getting home produce, and for that matter a great deal of foreign produce, at less than cost, and all economists agree that this is certainly not wise. Again, it is the townsmen, with no doubt the best intentions in the world, who has statutorily fixed on the farmer the major portion of his burdens which prevent him from reducing his costs: wages, tithe, death duties on land, taxes on his fuel for cultivation, and last, but not least, a very large portion of the National Health contribution from the healthier country villages is taken to support the less healthy industrial areas.

Although fresh money is badly needed to finance each new branch of the industry as it is dealt with by the various schemes, it cannot be too strongly emphasised that unless such measures are taken as will make the home product remunerative, such finance is useless. Farmers, though very distrustful of politicians, can do no more than hope that this result may be attained.

If such a thing should come to pass, and it seems to many too good to be true, there would be an outlet for financiers to the extent of at least £100,000,000.

To take the pig industry alone as an outlet for the investor, to produce only half the imported pigment £8,000,000 would be required for housing the additional sows and their progenies.

Further working capital for the purchase of stock would demand another £3,000,000. Stock breeding and feeding, dairying, arable, poultry, and horticulture could easily absorb the balance.

One of the main causes of the American industrial depression has been the enormous drop in the farmers' purchasing power, estimated in 1932 to be about five billion dollars.

FARM RELIEF BILL.

Farmers note with pleasure that the Central Chamber for Agriculture and the N.F.U. have taken up the question of finance. It is desperately urgent, and some sort of measure analogous to the American Farm Relief Bill is needed here, for it must not be forgotten that commodity producers can only pay their debts in commodities which are the real wealth of the community, and if the financiers so manipulate the currency or even fail to adjust it so that each succeeding year more and more commodities are demanded of the producer, in exchange for a fixed standard of currency, whether it be gold or paper, disaster is bound to ensue to the very people on whom the country depends for its main markets.

Money invested in a prosperous agriculture should form the finest security the City could desire. It abates the menace of unemployment and the taxation arising therefrom—as no other foreign investment can. It requires no battleship to be sent to collect interest. It does not suffer from any exchange restrictions. All financial operations are administered under English law.

Finally, it puts back on the land a healthy stock of English folk, who by every day's work they put on the soil lessen our vulnerability from any possible enemy in years to come.

'FLU' 'RELAPSE' —STOP IT WITH 'ASPRO'

Why 'ASPRO' Has a Universal Sale

Just why 'ASPRO' has so many diverse uses is puzzling to many. The secret is that 'ASPRO' attacks two of the main causes of complaints—viz. those of Uric Acid and Germ origin. After entering the system 'ASPRO' becomes both a solvent of Uric Acid and a germicide. Of interest to those seeking scientific reasons for the many uses of 'ASPRO' are the following realities:

1.—After liberation in the system, 'ASPRO' acts as a definite solvent of Uric Acid.

2.—It is a powerful germicide. Liquids containing mould spores and bacteria were treated with 'ASPRO' and kept for 6 to 7 days under conditions which were identical with those under which the same liquids without treatment were kept. Fermentation where sugar was present, and moulding and other decompositions took place in the latter, whilst the treated samples of 'ASPRO' were found to be UNCHANGED—they were perfectly sterile—the GERMS HAVING BEEN DESTROYED.

3.—It is a sufficiently powerful antiseptic to keep liquids containing organic matter from contamination. Sterilised liquids treated with 'ASPRO' remained sterile after 6 days' exposure to the atmosphere in uncorked bottles. There is, therefore, no doubt that 'ASPRO' as ingested is a solvent of Uric Acid, a powerful germicide and a powerful antiseptic.

THERE is still a lot of 'Flu' about and reports to hand indicate that a relapse may involve serious complications. Although the wave is not of epidemic nature, an attack means 'laying up' in bed—unemployment and much inconvenience. The quickest way to beat the 'Flu' is to use 'ASPRO'. 'ASPRO' will stop Colds and 'Flu' at inception. Immediately the first symptoms appear take 2 'ASPRO' Tablets and 2 tablets every three hours afterwards until symptoms disappear, a hot lemon drink to be taken immediately after the last dose before going to bed. It is advisable when taking 'ASPRO' for Influenza and Cold to keep the body warmly clad in order to prevent chill. 'ASPRO' won't fail you! It is sure, safe and certain. A child can take it safely. It does not harm the heart or injure the stomach and gives quick results because, after ingestion in the system, it is a solvent of uric acid, a powerful germicide and is anti-periodic, anti-pyretic and anti-fermentative.

How To Take 'Aspro' For Colds & Influenza

'ASPRO' the most universally used medicine in the British Empire is the quick safe and effective means of combating influenza. Take 2 'ASPRO' Tablets immediately the symptoms appear, and two Tablets every three hours afterwards until the 'Flu' has disappeared. A hot Whisky or Lemon Drink to be taken with the last dose before going to bed. It is advisable when taking 'ASPRO' for Influenza and Colds to keep the body warmly clad in order to prevent chill. These instructions have been scientifically formulated as a result of careful chemical research. Investigations and quick relief is obtained because after ingestion in the system 'ASPRO' is a Solvent of Uric Acid—a powerful germicide—an antiseptic—a anti-pyretic—anti-periodic and anti-fermentative. 'ASPRO' does not harm the heart. Always keep it in the home ready for emergency.

5 MINUTES FOR RELIEF WITH 'ASPRO'

There is nothing indefinite about 'ASPRO'. Its service is QUICK—its effective and definite. It gives you relief in 5 to 10 minutes and then goes on to dissolve or dissolve the cause of the pain, allowing Nature to effect its own cure. Furthermore, you get no harmful after-effects from 'ASPRO', as it is speedily eliminated from the system a few hours after being taken. It neither doses, drenches nor drugs.

HOW TO GIVE 'ASPRO' TO CHILDREN

Most children are subject to Tooth-ache, Earache, Colds and sudden bursts of 'Temperature'. 'ASPRO' can be safely given to children so affected. It will soothe the pain away, and quickly reduce Temperature.

Two simple methods of giving 'ASPRO' to the children are: (a) with a little milk; or (b) break the tablet up and administer in a teaspoonful of jam. The dosage for Children 3 to 6 years: ½ tablet; 6 to 14 years: 1 tablet; 14 to 18 years: 1½ tablets. 'ASPRO' like any other medicine should not be given to babies under 3 years of age without medical advice.

'ASPRO' IS PACKED IN 3 SIZES.

'ASPRO' for Hong Kong is packed in three sizes under our exclusive hygienic capsule system whereby each tablet is hermetically sealed in a separate airtight package to stop contact with atmospheric conditions and prevent hydrolysis. 'ASPRO' thus reaches you in its perfect original condition of purity—and it does not harm the heart. Five tablets 25 cents. Ten tablets 40 cents. 27 tablets $1.00.

THE COLONY'S SOCIAL STIGMA

The Government's explanation for the acute congestion in the Colony's gaols adds little to common knowledge. More than half the inmates of Victoria Gaol are imprisoned for opium offences and another group, exceeding three figures in number, represents individuals convicted for trivial offences such as that of hawking without a licence. Every day a fresh batch is sent in to swell the total and further releases before sentences have expired are inevitable. The effort to temper the seriousness of this state of affairs by claiming that those selected are under orders of deportation fails in the face of the facts revealed in the Magistracy day-by-day. Constantly before the Court come men charged with returning from banishment and the sentences imposed are, often enough, longer in term than those usually imposed for the offences finally productive of deportation orders. A vicious circle is set up with the result that a goodly proportion of the inmates of Hongkong prisons are almost in the category of permanent residents occasionally allowed out for brief holidays. The remedy is, of course, almost defiant of discovery and, in any event, it is not vitally material to the question of the dangerous overcrowding now existent. These are men who will be there in any event, whether roomage is plentiful or otherwise. Their case is quoted merely to illustrate that releases cannot be the solution of the gaol problem, that it must be sought elsewhere. Two features are conspicuous in the Government's analysis, the abnormal growth of opium offenders and the fact that the number of hawkers sent to prison in the month of May was treble that of the same month last year. The official explanation of the one admits the criticisms levelled at the Government's opium policy in these columns quite recently. The closing down of the Government Factory and the decision to obtain supplies from the tube-packing plant of the Straits Settlements monopoly have had disastrous consequences. The smoker objects to the quality of the new brand and on the score of wastage also to the tubes in which it is packed. He will not have Government opium if he can obtain other brands, preferably the well-known Red Lion brand from Macao. With what results? Government sales of opium have been cut by half. An immense stimulus has been given to smuggling. Raiding the divans merely fills the gaols. The Government says it is pledged to keep opium smoking within bounds and the motive of the Government is eminently to be respected. But the methods adopted are definitely prejudicial to the effective pursuit of the policy and the Government will get a grip upon the opium problem once again only if and when the needs of the connoisseur-habitue are met. Precautions against the dissemination of illicit opium have merely offended this man of taste, and his number is legion, and given a tremendous impetus to the illicit traffic. There is another social aspect of the abnormal increase in opium convictions which may very well be discussed in conjunction with the problem of the unlicensed hawker. Many of the opium offenders are mere coolies, employed as carriers and paid small sums for the service by those who direct the traffic. The majority accept the dangers of the "profession" merely because they must eat to live. They are compelled by poverty just as are many men and women who choose the alternative of hawking. Whether the Government realises it or not, Hongkong has not escaped the world-wide depression and there is considerable unemployment in the Colony. As usual, the hardest hit are those with latest opportunity for providing for the rainy day, those who at the best of times live at the bare or below what is considered to be the bare subsistence level. Social welfare in this Colony is conspicuous largely for its inability to touch even at the fringes of the problem. Government declines to accept any responsibility. Practically nothing is done to aid the distressed. They may starve. Some of them do. Others try hawking and hope to escape the eyes of the Indian policeman. Others carry opium. Some choose the straight-forward path of stealing. Ultimately, they all tread the same path, towards the gates of the gaol, which, for some of them, almost amounts to a social service. Stealing and opium-carrying cannot, of course, be condoned, but, except for our famous police case-book system, something might be done in the way of slackening the demand upon gaol accommodation by the hawker fraternity. The hawker is a nuisance. His number has already exceeded the official quota and no further licences should, strictly, be issued. But when distress is prevalent the Government cannot humanely ignore it and it is surely not above the wits of authority to provide a system whereby, in the absence of a better plan, free licences would be issued for short periods only to proved needy cases. In this Colony, it would be foolish to ask for more. But if the Government really desires to tackle one important factor in its gaol problem, can it grant anything less?

A Saner Cosmos

Those laymen who have been anxious about the extremely odd behaviour of the Cosmos—which of recent years is reputed to have tied itself up in the most alarming knots—may take heart of grace. The latest bulletin suggests that the patient is becoming a trifle more reasonable. It is still blowing itself out at a prodigious speed, but it is not trying to bite its own tail at the same time—which is something

DAY-DREAMS

By E. L. ALLEN

Some years ago, I had occasion to visit a ward in a mental hospital. It was a sunny day and a number of the patients were sitting out in the sunshine. A loud, strong voice came from the garden: a man was sitting there and talking volubly to himself, or rather, to an imaginary typist seated by his side.

He was dictating correspondence at great length, and in what he presumably thought was a precise and business-like fashion. It ran something like this: 'His Majesty King George comma Buckingham Palace comma London comma England full-stop next line Your Royal Highness comma next line We have the honour to inform you that we are in the position to supply our world-famous airships' and so on. The letter gave the specifications of the airships in question, with details as to price, and closed with the hope that His Majesty would see his way to placing an order with the firm. Then he went on to the next letter, addressed to the President of the United States, and so on all through the day!

WAY OF ESCAPE.

One did not know whether to be sorry for him or not. It was certainly much more pleasant to be doing imaginary trade with royalty than to face the hard fact that one was cooped up in that ward and under constant surveillance. Poor fellow! one could not really grudge him his escape from such surroundings! Exactly! he was finding a way of escape, and that from something much bigger than to be grateful for. Our private opinion has always been that its eccentricities are more apparent than real, puerile gestures invented for the edification of the mathematician-alienists, who would be gravely disappointed to find their theories disproved by the facts. So it does not surprise us in the least that Professor E. A. Milne has found the Universe perfectly amenable to treatment on old-fashioned Euclidean lines. This in itself is comforting. Old Euclid was a blunt, dependable sort of fellow. The Cosmos was not allowed to get up to any monkey-tricks in his day. Is it too much to hope that somebody will still further improve upon Professor Milne's work and succeed in inducing all these suns, nebulae, and what-not to abandon their ultra-modern habit of running away from us? We do not blame them. Twentieth Century scientists are a forbidding-looking crowd. But their telescopes, though they bear a strong resemblance to heavy artillery, ought not to be taken too seriously.

a hospital ward. Probably something had gone wrong in that man's life, a mistake—or worse—of which he had been guilty, or an injury he had suffered. And instead of working to put the one right or to rise in courage above the other, he took refuge in a world where such things did not happen, where he was a person of great importance and Kings and Presidents had regular dealings with him!

This man had fled from life to day-dreams. We all of us have day-dreams. As children, we had so much spare energy that it was just as well some of it did find employment in this way. Our parents were thankful we did not use it all on smashing the crockery or teasing the cat! And if we are artists by calling or as a hobby, day-dreams will be very valuable, for music and paintings and poetry can come out of them. But for the ordinary business of life they can be perilous stuff indeed.

NATIONS HAVE DAY-DREAMS.

Nations have day-dreams. The Armistice produced a whole crop of them. One nation had a day-dream in which it saw a huge stream of reparation-payments pouring into its exchequer, thus saving it from the necessity of high taxation to foot the bill for the war! Another had a day-dream of a country fit for heroes to live in as a substitute for tackling the housing problem! There are nations to-day which find it more pleasant to dream about their rights than to get on with the job of practical reform.

It is the same with ourselves. When a man says 'If I had my life over again, I would do this or that', he is day-dreaming. He has only one life and the task is to realise as much as possible of his ideal here and now in that. When a man says 'If we only had a decent social order, I should be ready to do my best, but as it is he is finding the same way of escape. For surely the more rotten society is in any case, the more call there is for each man to do his best to help to keep it from going to pieces altogether. And if he answers, 'Better let the thing go to pieces, it's not worth saving, isn't this picture of a just social order emerging out of a revolutionary orgy about the most dangerous of day-dreams?

A RULE OF LIFE.

Day-dreams are will-o'-the-wisps, ideals are guiding stars. The one procedure drains off the energy of life to make what appears a beautiful lake with an island-Paradise in the centre, but turns out soon to be just a stagnant pool. The other sets a current flowing through cultivated lands and populous cities to the sea. One gives you a view of Utopia, a delightful land, but no one knows where it is and it has no port where a ship may put in. The other gives you a plan of this common earth as it might become if one only had courage and confidence enough.

One of the first rules of life is? Sell your day-dreams and buy ideals with the proceeds. Cease thinking of what you would like to see happen and work at what you can do. Give up building castles in the air and sweep out the room in which you live!

"Please, darling, stop skipping. We don't want to attract attention."

BULLS AND INNERS

From the Office Butts

Now that it has been noticed that prickly pear is spreading in the New Territories, it is anticipated that a strong protest will be lodged by the Nudist Society.

Edward Kelly had a bad nightmare last week. He dreamt he was married to his wife. Screaming loudly, he woke up and found it was true.

It is a pity that the proposed New Territories Beer Garden has been banned. Presumably the authorities fear that it might go to motor-hogs' heads!

All this chatter about rabies raises the question—Should a dog-watch be muzzled?

And did you hear about the Licensing Justices who were quite prepared to grant a licence to a local cabaret as long as they didn't sell drinks on the premises?

Water restrictions may be lifted soon. Say when, mon.

It's all touch and go with Edward Kelly. All touch and very little go.

When a dog bit a man in Kowloon the owner expressed surprise and said it had never bitten anyone before. Still, before is not where dogs usually bite people.

"Cheap Blasting" reads a newspaper headline. Explosive expletives?

Among the week's "Lost" advertisements appeared one referring to an umbrella with an ivory tip and a bunch of rose. Hard!

One thing in favour of dealing in rubber is that it will usually stretch a point.

California—the land of perpetual sunshine. Iceland—the land of perpetual snow. New Zealand—the land of perpetual forests!

In this mad pursuit for fashion in bathing costumes, a lot of Hongkong women are trying to outstrip each other.

Hongkong dollar touched 1/4%. Edward Kelly wishes to meet this 1/4%.

"Abigail" says that bright tints will be all the rage next season. Women will flock to the colours.

She was only a shoe-maker's daughter, but she never said "Shoo".

"Serious communal riots in India." Standing up for their riots.

Lane, Crawford's, according to a contemporary, rendered invaluable assistance during the water famine fifty years ago. Nineteen, thirty-three is, of course, the dry-century.

Japan boycotts Indian cotton. The Japanese seem to be cottoning on to this boycott idea.

Edward Kelly always pays his shroffs with a smile. Trouble is, they expect cash.

Hongkong is not represented at the Economic Conference, which is rather a pity. We can think of quite a number of possible delegates, and there is always the possibility that they would not come back.

Even gold bars are not always gilt-edged!

CANTON URGED TO REMAIN LOYAL

CHINA'S STRENGTH LIES IN UNITY

London, June 23.

Co-operation among all Chinese leaders is urged in a telegram from Dr. W. W. Yen, Dr. Wellington Koo and Mr. Quo Tai-chi, three of China's delegates to the London Economic Conference, addressed to members of the Canton and Kwangtung Provincial Government.

The message refers to the South-west Political Council's open telegram to the League of Nations, sent on June 12; a message which condemned the Tangku truce with Japan and the efforts of Mr. T. V. Soong to obtain a gold loan from America.

The Chinese delegates, in their answer to Canton's charges, declare that in the recent fighting about Peking the casualties on the Chinese side amounted to tens of thousands. It was fruitless for the Government to resist longer. Furthermore, the truce signed at Tangku was in no way a surrender, and was strictly military in effect. It resembled, the telegram said, the Shanghai armistice signed last year, with the participation of the officers of the 19th Route Army.

Questions involving sanctions under Article Sixteen of the League Covenant, and the severance of diplomatic relations with Japan, although welcome in principle to every Chinese, could not be approached. The time for the application of these measures must be most carefully chosen, the message stated.

The three Chinese delegates point out, also, that the Cantonese condemnation of Nanking Government's truce gave Japan the opportunity of misrepresenting the situation as it exists in China. Any sign of disunity, lack of co-operation or discrepancy in policies of a national nature, indicated by Chinese leaders, would weaken the position of China abroad and make the position of her representatives awkward, the message concluded.

OPEN BOWLS TITLES.

Proposed Introduction of Rinks And Pairs Events.

TO ABANDON SPEY CUP?

The possibility of introducing a rinks championship and also a pairs championship was discussed at a meeting of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association held at Messrs. Lane, Crawford's Restaurant yesterday afternoon, with Mr. J. Russell in the chair.

The meeting was convened to consider the revision of the rules of the Association, and in introducing the subject the chairman remarked that since the suggested amendments had been circulated to clubs it was thought advisable to go more fully into the rules, which required complete revision. He suggested the formation of a sub-committee for the purpose of considering the rules, further.

The Kowloon Bowling Green Club (represented by Mr. B. Wylie) indicated that they were prepared to support the rules as revised and circulated.

There was a long discussion on the rules as circulated, and the amendments as suggested by the chairman for the consideration of the committee. On the question of membership and powers of voting at meetings, according to the proposed rules, bona fide lawn bowlers and members of affiliated clubs were allowed to vote at meetings.

Equality of Votes for Clubs.

It was pointed out that equality of representation and powers of voting should be granted all clubs. Under the revised rules a member of a club might make a proposition which might be carried in direct opposition to the instructions of that member's own appointed club representative.

It was generally agreed that each club should have an equal number of votes at all meetings of the Association. After further points had been discussed, the meeting elected a sub-committee for the purpose of further considering the rules. A proposal by the Kowloon Bowling Green Club that the rules as circulated be adopted was defeated.

The following members were elected to the sub-committee:—Messrs. J. Russell, G. E. F. Thompson, E. Hampton, B. Wylie, and A. H. Basto.

Spey Cup as Trophy.

The chairman then mentioned that it was proposed to abandon the Spey Royal Cup Competition and in its place institute an open rinks championship with the present Spey Royal Cup as the trophy for the championship. It was also proposed to consider the introduction of a pairs championship.

The proposed rules for the International Solid were formally adopted for the present year. The first round matches will be played at the Kowloon C. C. on Sunday, July 9.

It was unanimously agreed to issue an invitation to Shanghai to send a team to Hongkong for the annual Interport matches at such time as suited the northerners.

OZONED WATER FOR LONDON

A CLEAR AND SPARKLING "BREW"

Water of a purer, nobler "brew" is being planned for Londoners by the Metropolitan Water Board, who are experimenting with a view to converting 15,000,000 gallons of river water daily into a product as delicious as that from mountain springs, by means of ozone.

Although its size and purity have made London's water supply world-famous, small scale experiments at Barn Elms have suggested that ozone can further improve London water.

Ozone and chlorine are equally deadly to bacteria in the water, and chlorination, on which the health of London at present largely depends, is less costly than treatment with ozone. But on every other count ozone wins easily.

It makes the water remarkably clear and crystalline, removing the harmless colouring matter caused by aquatic life and vegetation. It removes the accompanying flavour common to river waters and obnoxious to many consumers. It leaves no trace of its presence or taste, where it takes all the skill and vigilance of the Board's scientists to free the present water supply from chlorine.

These results have led to the conclusion that the extra cost—perhaps 1 per cent. or the total cost of ozonisation—might be justified by the new sparkle and flavour.

TRAFFIC-MINDED CHILDREN

NATURE AND ROAD TOLL

A warning against the misinterpretation of the phrase "safety first" was uttered by Mr. G. H. Gater, Education Officer to the L.C.C. (who has been appointed Clerk to that authority), in an address which he gave to the "Safety First" Association Congress.

The Association's slogan, "Safety First," said Mr. Gater, was capable of conveying a wrong impression. "I do not take it to mean grandmotherly coddling," he said. "I understand that you have no intention whatever to check enterprise, initiative, and the spirit of adventure."

In Great Britain approximately 4,000 children under 16 years of age lost their lives each year as the result of accidents, he added. Half this toll was due to accidents directly or indirectly attributable to the dangers inherent in modern traffic.

While the loss of life by road accidents among adults had more than kept pace with the growth of motor traffic, the loss of life among children had remained almost stationary.

Nature might in the long run produce the perfect traffic-minded child, but the operation of natural selection in this respect was too costly in young life to allow nature to resolve the problem in her own slow way.

FRENCH AIR LINES FUSION

ECONOMY AND DEFENCE

Paris, May 25.

The fusion of the French Air lines is now practically accomplished. The four principal companies—the Air Union, the Cline, the Air-Orient, and Aero-Postale—have submitted a proposal to form themselves into a single company, and it is receiving the favourable attention of the Air Minister.

Details of the fusion will be worked out by a special committee presided over by the Air Minister. It is possible that a new line will be created for the Trans-Sahara service.

The principal motive for the fusion is one of economy. All the air lines are heavily subsidised by the State, which is therefore the principal sufferer if they are run at a loss. It is believed that a considerable saving in this respect will be brought about through the grouping of the lines under a central administration.

In addition, the fusion will enable civil aviation to be directly controlled by the Government—an important advantage from the point of view of national defence. The Aero-Postale, incidentally, which it is alleged, has been in a state of virtual bankruptcy for some time past, is shortly to make an official announcement of default. It is reported.

FEWER MOTOR COACHES

CONSIDERABLE FALL
IN REGISTRATIONS

EFFECT OF ROAD TRAFFIC ACT

The latest figures published by the Ministry of Transport, coupled with statements made by officials of a number of road-users' organisations, indicate that the number of motor-coaches throughout the country is being reduced considerably. This is attributed mainly to the provisions of the Road Traffic Act, but, at the same time, it is claimed in many quarters that the big drop in the registration figures of passenger-carrying vehicles means definitely that the peak has been passed.

This year's figures show a fall of 1,301 compared with last year. The position was summed up by representatives of the following organisations:

Automobile Association—"We are probably better served in the way of motor-coach concerns than any other country in the world. If the peak has been reached, it is due to the merging of services as a result of the Road Traffic Act."

"Although the South of England and the industrial areas are very adequately served, there are still certain outlying districts where better coach services would be justified. As new areas, too, are developed, residential and industrial, further road services will be necessary."

OBSOLETE VEHICLES.

Royal Automobile Club—"There must be a point where transport needs are adequately covered, and it is undoubtedly true that the majority of new vehicles now being registered are merely replacing obsolete ones. The new licensing restrictions tend to check the number of happy-go-lucky owners, who no longer find it worth their while to operate in a small way."

Commercial Motor Users' Association—"No one can deny that there used to be more omnibuses on certain routes than the amount of traffic warranted, but the Act, in addition to curtailing many existing services, has practically prevented new ones from being opened."

Motor-coach Owner—"The limit has been reached, and the movement is now downward rather than upward. Nowadays it is necessary to fill up innumerable forms in order to run a coach to the local flower show, and the frequent inspection of vehicles has led to a considerable number being taken off the roads."

THE PRINCE AS A "KEEN GARDNER"

OMISSION AT A CORNISH SHOW

In a ten-minute address to Cornish farmers at the Royal Cornwall Agricultural Show at St. Austell, the Prince of Wales said:

"We in Great Britain should regard farming as an industry, our farms as factories, and the farmer as a manager."

"If the farmer cannot find a market for the goods he produces it is up to him to explore to try to find another line."

"As a keen gardener I enjoyed what I saw in the horticultural section to-day, but it occurred to me that there were no displays of commercial horticulture—that side of farming which I consider very important in this country."

After referring to his visit to Denmark last year where, he said, he was particularly impressed by the organisation of the bacon industry, the Prince added, "I am sure we could increase this side of farming by concentrating on producing a selected breed of pig and eliminating all others."

In a reference to unemployment the Prince said, "We must realise the necessity of some occupation, mental or physical, being given to those less lucky than ourselves. It is hard enough to be out of a job, but it is far worse not to be fit enough through enforced idleness to take up a job when given the opportunity."

The Prince flew back from Cornwall.

organise the Army for a big war in Europe. But I would venture to say that a big war in Europe is not likely to be fought by our Army for many years."

"What we are responsible for is the policing of the British Empire. That is a big enough task in itself. Any idea of turning the whole of the Army into a large mechanised force is not practical politics. We have to hold infantry and cavalry scattered all over the world, in countries where mechanised forces would be unsuitable."

"We could not have a big army for Europe unless we had two separate armies—one for the Empire and the other for Europe. It would be a dangerous policy," he concluded, "to concentrate only on a big army for a war on the Continent."

ROADHOGS' NAMES ON RADIO

SAFETY FIRST CONGRESS

"The names of road users who break the law by selfish driving should be broadcast by the B.B.C."

This drastic suggestion was one of several put forward as a cure for road accidents by speakers at the National Safety First Congress at Caxton Hall.

The differing views held on the means of achieving greater safety on the roads are illustrated by the following extracts from three of the leading speeches.

Lieutenant-Colonel Pickard: Nine out of every ten victims of fatal road accidents were either walking or cycling. Human failure was the cause in the majority of cases.

Eventually—and the sooner the better—the pedestrian would have to surrender a part of his freedom to go as he pleased in return for being given a greater measure of protection at the expense of other traffic.

Selfishness was at the root of most accidents. There should be a greater use of mobile police and the names of road users who broke the law by selfish driving should be broadcast by the B.B.C. Wide-spread announcements of impending raids by mobile police would have a wonderful psychological effect in stamping out all sorts of selfish road use, even if the raids were not always carried out.

Mr. Herbert Morrison, former Minister of Transport: Practically every driver against whom criticism could be levelled could pass a driving test. The problem of bad driving was a problem of temperament. He was not convinced that in the London area, at any rate, there was an enormous amount of bad driving, or that the driving test would make the slightest difference.

If we could invent some mechanism that could be clamped over a driver's head when he went for his licence, which would determine whether he was temperamentally suited to drive a car, we should solve the problem.

Major W. H. Morgan, County Engineer of Middlesex County Council: There are many drivers on the road, although physically fit, who either through lack of road sense or mere selfishness, are a menace to all, and until the law makes it compulsory for all applicants for driving licences to pass a thorough and practical test, accidents will continue irrespective of any safety methods which the road engineer may incorporate.

DISPUTE OVER CHARGE FOR LANDING

Bournemouth. The people of Bournemouth and Poole are taking vigorous action in an attempt to preserve the right of the public to land free on the shore at Shell Bay, the popular bathing and picnic beach just outside Poole Harbour.

The beach and foreshore at Shell Bay are owned by the Bankes Estate and the Lord of the Manor is Mr. Ralph Bankes, of Kingston Lacey, near Wimborne, Dorset, who has granted a licence to the company operating a large chain ferry across the mouth of Poole Harbour to erect a pier or landing stage at which a charge shall be made for landing or embarking.

The effect of this will be that no person will be able to land at Shell Bay without paying to use the chain ferry, or, if they use the motor-boats run by local boatmen, unless they pay the proposed landing fee and use the landing stage. Admiral Sir Nelson Ommamney, of Parkstone, is taking a leading part in the agitation to preserve the public right of way and a public protest meeting is to be held.

The Princess Royal presented a statement on the work of the society's detachments, of which she is Commandant-in-Chief, and announced that 2,517 service medals had been awarded to members for "long and efficient service."

An officers' training course was being held in the Isle of Wight Camp next month, and she had promised to inspect the officers on June 9.

The Princess Royal also announced that the Red Cross Society's first air ambulance detachment was now in being, in East Lancashire. Lady Bailey had consented to become the first Commandant of a Middlesex detachment at Hanworth.

The total number of detachments was now 997.

General Champaign reported on the general work of the society, and referred specially to the work of the blood transfusion service, which was increasing steadily.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

The advent of Zane Grey's "The Golden West," the Fox picture at the King's Theatre marks the renaissance of Indian drama, the return to popular favour on a new and much larger scale of the story of the struggles between the whites and the redmen. It is, however, only as the background for what is said to be one of the most intriguing romances ever brought to the screen, a story that pivots about a family feud, a romance torn apart and rekindled after a lapse of twenty years in the hearts of the son of the boy and the daughter of the girl.

O'Brien portrays a dual role and in the second part of the picture appears as the leader of a tribe of Indians who adopted him when they burned a settlement of the whites and massacred its entire population. "The Golden West" is reported as the most spectacular of any of the Fox Film outdoor romances featuring O'Brien in the leading role.

"The Wiser Sex"

Drama of the thoroughly modern type is "The Wiser Sex," Paramount's talking edition of Clyde Fitch's play "Her Confessions," which opens tomorrow at the Queen's Theatre.

Glaudette Colbert, perhaps the "most unscandalized" beauty of films, is featured in the new offering with Melvyn Douglas, young stage thespian, who made his photoplay debut with Gloria Swanson in "Tonight or Never."

Others in the cast are Lilyan Tashman, William Boyd, Edie Shannon, Ross Alexander, Franchot Tane and Douglas Dumbrille. The direction is by Berthold Viertel.

Miss Colbert is cast as a charming, lady of luxurious means, who gives up a European play tour to come to the rescue of Douglas, Douglas, who neglects his love duties to wash up an underworld blot on his city, has been prettily framed into a murder charge through the untender gestures of Boyd and Miss Tashman, a former showgirl friend.

Action is said to abound in drama and thrills, sustained right up to the climax, in which Miss Colbert, obviously doomed for her "last ride," nearly turns the tables on the "brains" of the racketeer element.

"The Woman Between"

Lily Damita springs a new one calculated to set up loud yowls of protest from both men and women. She announces emphatically that everyone's been wrong on the definition of love for the last million years when they declared that women are ruled by their hearts and men by their heads.

"It's just the opposite," claims the glamorous Lily, who is to be seen on the screen on Sunday at the Central Theatre. "Most women are guided by an alert, reasoning instinct when it comes to marriage, while men—the foolish creatures—are propelled by their thumping hearts and aroused sense over the sight of lovely faces and figures."

"The Black Camel"

Two mysterious killings, knives hurtling through the air, false clues, blows in the dark and similar exciting happenings, all taking place among the palm-fringed beaches and luxuriant gardens of Hawaii, feature the "Black Camel," which comes to the Oriental Theatre tomorrow.

"The Black Camel" is the second of a series of "Charlie Chan" stories and is said to be even more thrilling and entertaining than the earlier "Charlie Chan Carries On." Warner Oland and Sully Eller lead the cast, with Bela Lugosi, Dorothy Royer, Victor Varconi in important roles.

"Home Express"

Film production is one long exercise in human ingenuity. Fish and fruit fashioned in gelatin are but minor examples of what the studios do in the way of contriving screen illusions.

"Home Express," the first film to be made in the new Gaumont-British Studios, is probably Britain's most ingenious picture. Most of the action takes place on a train, seen on the screen speeding by night and day across the Continent on its long and fateful journey from Paris to Rome.

But the giant locomotive, belching steam and smoke, never left the Lime Grove Studios. The whole train was assembled there under the direction of railway experts.

The only "shots" taken outside the studios were those employed in creating the illusion of speed.

Producing the night scenes was a particularly ingenious effort. The cameraman could not film after sundown. So in one of the large Lime Grove stages was assembled a wonderful panoramic model about 40 feet long, and containing minute advertisements, signs, telegraph posts, trees, fields, and gently undulating hills.

Parallel to the panorama, which was painted a very dark grey, ran a track carrying a mobile camera. The studio was thrown into complete darkness, save for a spot light affixed to the camera. Between the spot light and the model a strip of board, slotted at intervals, intervened to cast moving train lighting reflections on the countryside, as the camera moved along and made a film, which later was also "back projected."

Train noises—for example, the roar set up when an express dashes under a bridge and the rhythmic drumming of the wheels—were specially recorded on sections of the G.W.R. by recording cameras. The recorded sound was then dimmed down and cunningly blended with the spoken dialogue.

"Home Express" will be shown at the King's Theatre tomorrow.

"Fast Workers"

With John Gilbert and Robert Armstrong teamed as two riveters of romantic inclination, Mae Clarke, Muriel Kirkland, Vince Barnett and Virginia Cherrill for hilarious comedy, "Fast Workers," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer thriller of skyscrapers and the men who build them is now at the Queen's Theatre.

John Mahoney's play, "Rivets," furnished the basis for the screen story which has scenes filmed on top of Manhattan's tallest buildings to serve as a breath-taking setting for the action.

REMOVAL OF TOMB- STONES ORDERED

Munich, June 23.
The tombstones of Kurt Eisner (Premier of Bavaria during the Bolshevik regime in 1919) and Gustav Landauer (Communist leader who was shot) are to be demolished.

This action is being taken as a result of an order by the Munich Town Council. The ashes of the two Communists will be handed over to the Jewish Ecclesiastical authorities.

The reason for this action is alleged to be the discovery of a plot to blow up Eisner's grave.—Reuter Special.

OBITUARY

DR. WEBB ANDERSON

Many older residents of the Colony will learn with regret of the death, which occurred in London on May 21, of the Rev. Dr. W. J. Webb Anderson, who was for 28 years Medical Superintendent of the Methodist Missionary Hospital at Fathani.

The late William Jenkins Webb Anderson was born in England on July 4, 1870, and was educated at Kingwood School, Bath, and Yorkshire College, Leeds. He was accepted for the Wesleyan Ministry in 1896, and took a theological course at Headingly Theological College. He also studied medicine at Leeds, and obtained a gold medal, as well as prizes for clinical medicine and surgery, midwifery, and diseases of women and children. He also gained an honour certificate in anatomy (junior and senior), pathology, and other branches of medicine, showing unusual brilliance in his studies. He graduated as M.B., Ch. B. from Victoria, Manchester, in 1899, and was admitted M. B. Ch. B. at Leeds in 1905, gaining the M.D. of Leeds the following year, after he had come out to China. In 1906 he was elected a F.R.S. in London. Later he took the D.T.M. his work in tropical medicine being particularly valuable. He was appointed to the hospital at Fathani early in 1905, and had laboured there continuously ever since.

The late Dr. Webb Anderson was also a member of the Convocation of Leeds University, and an Associate of Yorkshire College, Leeds. His writings included "Notes on Dengue Fever and Cholera Asiatica" in the Lancet. He was married to a Miss Rawcliffe, daughter of Mr. E. Rawcliffe of Leeds.

MURDER CHARGE

Evidence of the finding of the body was given at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, before Mr. Schofield, when the preliminary investigation of the charge of murder of a woman, Fan Hing (70) brought against Fan Shui-ku, was resumed. Mr. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, is conducting the Crown's case. Police Constable Chan Kum-sing, stationed at Shaukiwan Police Station, said that on June 1, in the afternoon, as the result of a report, he went to Taifoo Street to look for the two defendants, who were alleged to have moved there. They were not there. He then made a search of the empty houses in Kam Wah Street and on the ground floor of No. 57, he found the old woman lying dead. With the assistance of another person, he pushed open the back door, which was not secured in any way. Witness noticed that a towel lay by one of the hands of the strangled woman.

Acting Inspector Stewart Logan, officer-in-charge of Shaukiwan Police Station, in evidence, said that at 7 p.m. on June 5 in the charge room he saw the two defendants. In his presence the male defendant was searched by a Chinese constable. The female defendant was searched separately by a female searcher. From the latter searcher, witness received a wallet which was found to contain a jade drop and $135 in notes. Other property was received from the constable.

Further evidence was called, after which the hearing was adjourned to Monday afternoon. The magistrate has set aside Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons also for the hearing.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

The new grand slam premium has done a great deal to increase the number of grand slams being bid for at rubber play. One is justified now in bidding for a grand slam even if it depends upon a finesse to make it.

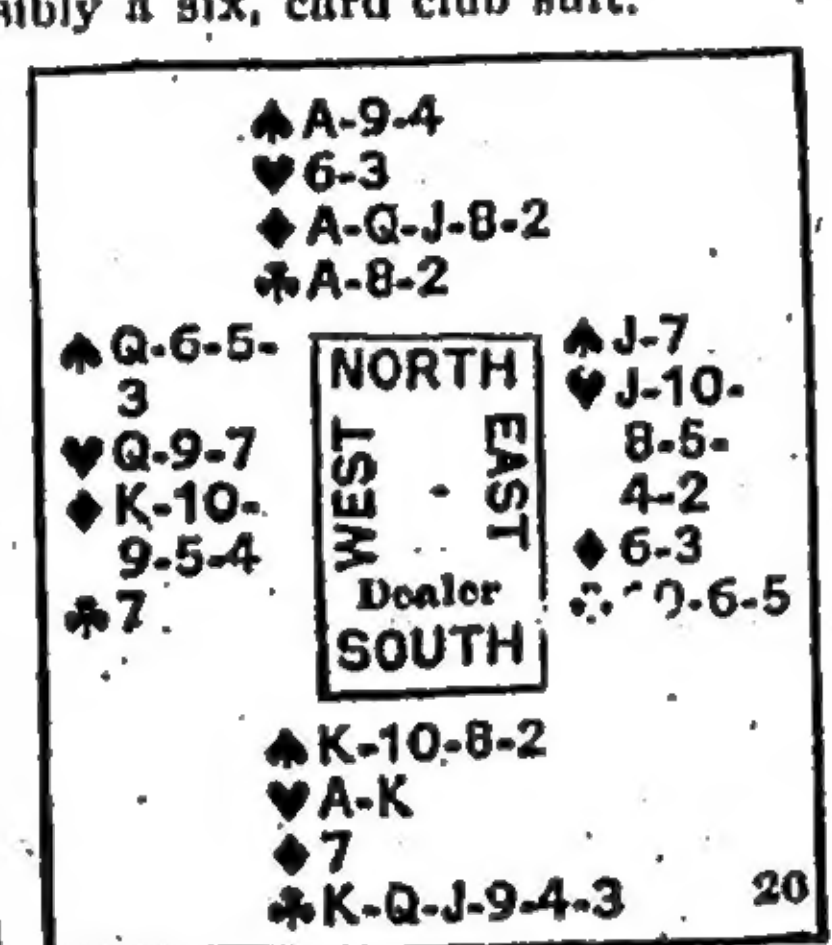

However, Mrs. Margaret A. Katzen of Pittsburgh in a recent rubber game found that not only was it necessary for her to win a finesse but also to execute a neat squeeze play in order to make her contract.

The Bidding.

I thought the bidding unusually interesting as it gives a very good count on the hand. Mrs. Katzen in the South opened with one club. North made a one over one forcing response of one diamond. Mrs. Katzen in the South then decided to make the third constructive bid by showing her second suit—she bid one spade.

North immediately knew that there was at least a small slam in the hand and now bid three clubs. They had set the safety of the hand—both players had agreed on clubs. South now bid three hearts to show definite control of the heart suit. North bid four no trump.

South went to five clubs—this bid shows at least a five, and possibly a six, card club suit.

North now decided that the best chance for grand slam on the hand was in clubs, so he bid seven clubs.

The Play.

West gave the declarer an immediate guess by opening the ten of diamonds. South took the finesse, playing the jack from dummy which held the trick.

Declarer now decided that if the diamonds were split 4-3 the fifth diamond could be established for the needed discard. So a small diamond was returned from dummy and trumped by the declarer with a small club.

Three rounds of trump were taken, West discarding a spade and a heart. The third club was won in dummy with the ace. The ace of diamonds was played from dummy, declarer discarding a spade, but East showed out.

Now the only hope that declarer had was for West to have left at least three spades. If these three spades were small, it means that the bare queen and jack would be in the East hand and would drop, while if West held either the queen or the jack declarer saw that a squeeze play could be executed.

The ace and king of hearts were cashed, then the jack of clubs, on which West discarded the nine of diamonds. Declarer played the four of spades from dummy. And now on the last club West was squeezed.

He could not let go of the king of diamonds or dummy's queen and eight would both be good. If he let go a small spade, declarer would discard a diamond from dummy and then win the last three tricks with spades.

tion to the attempt to arrive at temporary stabilisation.

OPEN QUESTION.

The United States memorandum showed clearly what the position was in that country. Although it was an open question, many responsible men earnestly working for the success of the conference felt that the final utility of temporary stabilisation became doubtful if it tended to break the upward tendency of prices in United States.

The situation left by yesterday's Note was not at all cloudy or uncertain. It enabled them to go on with their work and they were doing so.

There was a suggestion abroad that the conference should adjourn. He could not imagine a more foolish suggestion to be made at this moment.

SILLY MISTAKE.

Recalling the efforts of the last twelve months to get the conference convened, he declared that if they were to adjourn now with a view to resuming in the autumn, the chances were that the situation instead of being better would be considerably worse. Nothing could have a worse effect than such an adjournment upon the determination of practically the whole of the nations of the world to get some spirit of settlement.

The Conference is going on, he declared emphatically.

There were interests, perhaps,
who wanted to destroy the conference altogether, but he hoped the press would steadily resist that sort of influence.

SLOW WORKING MACHINES.

All who had experience in previous international conferences knew they were slow working machines and that the end of the second week was always the time when perhaps pessimism began to show itself as the language and other difficulties had by that time made themselves felt.

He had not, at this conference, felt as depressed as he was on certain days when the Lausanne Conference was trembling in the balance. Next week would be one of coordination and the committees would acquire some sense of the bigness of work whereon they were engaged. Those committees were now in full working order.

Six sub-committees of the Economic and Monetary Commissions of the World Conference sat privately to-day for detailed consideration of the various matters referred to them.—

NOTABLE CATHOLIC ANNIVERSARY.

NINETEEN CENTURIES OF CHRISTIANITY

The Catholic Feast of the Sacred Heart which fell yesterday was celebrated with more than usual fervour by those of the Faith, in association with the significance of this year just completing the nineteenth hundred years since the death of Christ.

Hundreds of the Catholic community flocked to their Cathedral yesterday afternoon for the special services arranged for the anniversary. Solemn Vespers were followed by a Procession of the Blessed Sacrament, the function being one of the most notable that has been held in the environments of the Cathedral for a number of years.

Bishop Vallarta, assisted by the Cathedral clergy and representatives from the different religious Orders and Missions in the Colony, took a leading part in this Act of Adoration and Reparation, rendered the more impressive by the rendering of sacred music and the singing of hymns.

Members of the different Prayer
Circles organized by the Cathedral Body, made of the event a special occasion for the exercise of their spiritual duties.

It is notified that at the expiration of three months The Kwong Sun Company, Limited will, unless cause is shown to the contrary, be struck off the register and the company will be dissolved.
